The Upland News Wishes Every One a Very Merry Christmas

PLANS COMPLETED FOR MUNICIPAL CHRISTMAS AT PARK SAT.

Municipal Band to Assist, Community Chorus Big Feature, Mayor to Welcome People to the City, Gifts for the Children, Decoration of the Tree Superb

Plans for Upland's fourth annual Municipal Christmas Tree are complete and one of the foremost announcements is that the Municipal Band is to appear on the program. Director Wilding conferred with the members of the band at rehearsal Wednesday night as to whether they would cooperate with others of the city in making the event a success and the decision of the men was to the effect that they would be delighted to offer their services. Although some of the men had previous arrangements which will hinder their being present, the majority will be on hand and add greatly to the program.

The News Print Shop today completed the programs for the event, it being produced in Christmas colors and extending to the people a Merry Christmas.

Early tomorrow morning you will notice many busy men at Municipal Park for men of the Fire Department and the American Legion will be busy with the decorating of the tree and the men are determined that the tree is going ahead of anything ever attempted here by way of decoration, for promptly at the appointed time the big tree that graces Municipal Park will burst forth in hundreds of colored lights and bloom in the night as do the flowers in the springtime.

All for Little Folks

All of this effort is more largely for the little folks than for any one else; in fact, Christmas joy hinges quite largely on whether or not the children are happy, so the hour for the Municipal Christmas Tree has been set for 7 o'clock and promptly at that time the program will be set in motion under the guidance of Councilman A. B. Whitney who is chairman of the event. The committee assisting Mr. Whitney has arranged for gifts for the children and wants every child present to receive them. If enough have not been provided so that every child gets remembered, by leaving your name with R. C. Stone the gifts will be delivered to your children later.

The Program

The program is as follows:

1. March, "Excelsior," Upland Municipal Band.
2. Community Chorus, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing."
3. Prayer, Rev. Bert Foster, Rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church.
4. Address of Welcome, Mayor A. H. Johnson.
5. Community Chorus, "It Came upon the Midnight Clear."
6. Reading, "The Christmas Story."
7. Community Chorus, "Oh Come All Ye Faithful."
8. "Silent Night," Pupils of the Eighth Grade Upland Grammar School.
9. Selection, Grand Overture, Upland Municipal Band.
10. "Joy to the World," by the Audience.
11. Benediction, Rev. R. C. Stone.
12. Distribution of Gifts to the Children.

TWO FINE FEATURES ANNOUNCED FOR COMING ORANGE SHOW

Two splendid feature displays were assured the Eleventh National Orange Show from the San Gabriel Valley Associated Chambers of Commerce and the Pacific Electric railroad.

A telephone message brought news of the former, asking that space be reserved. It will be remembered that the San Gabriel Valley people have been represented for several years, their feature last year being in the cup winning class—one of the most beautiful in the big top. That they will have a display fully in keeping with that rich district is assured.

E. C. Thomas, advertising manager for the Pacific Electric railroad, and C. H. Jones, general agent for the same line, called and announced that their system is preparing to install a display in the feature class and that it will be of an elaborate character and thoroughly in keeping with the spirit of the show.

The character of neither of the displays was announced.

ORANGE SHOW MORE ARTISTIC THIS YEAR

That the Eleventh National Orange Show, to be held in San Bernardino February 18 to 28 will be physically larger and more elaborately artistic than the exposition last year, which was declared to have reached the pinnacle of its possibilities, was an announcement made by the management today. Forty feet of space will be added to the big tents and a more detailed and colorful decorative program than before attempted carried out.

The Orange Show will again be held at Urbana Springs Park, the natural attractiveness of the location adding much to the general beauty. The scope of the coming show can better be judged when it is said that the visitor will be able to spend an entire day on the grounds and not see the same thing twice.

Floor plans for the show have been completed and space is being assigned exhibitors. Early indications are that the industrial and automobile departments will overflow from the big tents to the grounds. Space is being assigned in the order applications are received. Feature exhibits have been booked from cities and counties as far north as Sacramento and as far south as San Diego county. There will be more quality fruit on the racks than ever before and competition for awards will be more keen.

COURT AWARDS C.V. CALHOUN DAMAGES

As an aftermath of the damaging of C. V. Calhoun's Ford car last June by a team of horses hitched to a sprinkling cart and belonging to Contractor Stanard, of Pomona, a suit was tried before Judge Crane Wednesday in which Mr. Calhoun sued Mr. Stanard for $97.55, the cost of repairing the car.

It developed that Mr. Stanard, before several witnesses, had told Mr. Calhoun to repair the car and send him the bill and he would pay it, but when Stanard received the bill, failed to carry out his agreement.

Mr. Calhoun was not only given judgment for the $97.55, but for the court costs as well.

Attorney Isaac Jones represented Mr. Calhoun and Attorney Mitchell of Pomona represented Mr. Stanard. At the time of the collision the Calhoun Ford was in front of the Santa Fe depot one Sunday morning. The team started at Euclid and Eleventh street and the driver was thrown from the cart at Second and Tenth and quite seriously injured. Although the team missed hitting other vehicles all the way down Second avenue, it failed to make the turn at A street and the Ford was badly smashed up when the mix-up was straightened out.

CASES HEARD IN LOCAL POLICE COURT

Local officers are today looking for a man who signs himself as Morris J. Reed. Checks of small amounts on the Commercial National Bank have been causing bank officials considerable trouble as the young man hasn't funds in the bank.

J. R. Carman of Cucamonga appeared before Judge Crane Wednesday on a charge of speeding, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $15.

J. R. Craxen of Ontario also appeared on a similar charge and paid a fine of $10.

Too Much Shooting

Donald Figgins, 14; Charles Figgins, 17, and C. Hanña, 15, all of Ontario, appeared in Judge Crane's court yesterday morning on a charge of shooting from an auto on the public highway near Cucamonga.

The complaint was made by M. R. Scott of Cucamonga that the three boys were driving along the road shooting at mail boxes and signs.

The boys claim they had been to the mountains for holly and mistletoe which they shot from the trees with a rifle. A .22 rifle and two shotguns were taken from the boys, none of whom had a hunting license.

The case, since the defendants are all juveniles, would have to be handled by the juvenile court, but since the Christmas holidays are so near at hand, Judge Crane released the boys until January 8th, retaining their guns.

Funeral rites for Mary Ortega of Cucamonga, aged 16, who died on Wednesday after a long illness, were held this morning at St. George's Church in Ontario.

TWO ENGINES MIXUP OVERLAND DELAYED

Two engines were badly damaged, several feet of track torn out, and Santa Fe Overland No. 22 was delayed for more than an hour when the first engine of the passenger sideswiped a switch engine on I street near Seventh, San Bernardino, at 7:35 o'clock Tuesday night. No one was injured.

The passenger, known as the "Missionary," with Engineer William Connelly at the throttle of the first engine, was leaving the yards 10 minutes late, when the accident occurred. The switch engine, handling 30 "reefers," was switching from the east-bound track, and was just leaving the siding for the main line when the Overland swung into I street. Engineer James Nance was handling the switch engine. Seeing the accident was inevitable, Connelly set the emergency brakes on the passenger and both engines were jerked loose from the coaches.

The engines sideswiped a few feet from the switch junction, and both front ends were derailed. Inside cylinders were torn off, trucks jerked loose, and cowcatchers demolished as the locomotives nosed their way into the dirt. Only the fact that both engines were going at a minimum speed prevented much more serious damage. Both train crews stuck with their engines.

The switch light was set against the passenger, railroaders pointed out, and they also declared the switch engine had the privilege of using the main line, since the Overland was more than 10 minutes late. These facts will be brought out at the investigation held today.

The second engine pushed the Overland back to the passenger yards and another locomotive was brought out. The delayed train pulled out at 8:45, using the west bound track.

The wrecking crew was hurried to the scene and worked most of the night clearing the track and removing the engines to the shops. The damaged passenger engine is one of the 1300-type, and one of the Santa Fe's finest overland locomotives.

Following the wreck an endeavor was made to get the engines back on the track and while one engine was being lifted a pin broke which let the engine fall to the ground again. The Arizona Division wrecker was called in from Barstow and the track cleared.

WHO GETS A BICYCLE GRAHAME'S TONIGHT

J. L. Grahame's Auto Supply Station will be the mecca of the people of the city tonight at 6 o'clock when the big drawing for the bicycle is to be staged. For several weeks, Mr. Grahame has been issuing tickets with each 50c work of supplies purchased and several hundred tickets have been given out, all of them being numbered.

The duplicate of each ticket given out has been placed in a box and tonight after the tickets have been thoroughly mixed, the first one drawn out will be the one which gets the bicycle. Several numbers will be drawn and other articles awarded to the lucky ones holding the numbers. If the first number drawn tonight is not in the hands of some one present, all the numbers will be posted for one week before any awards are made.

SOLD TOOLS FOR 60 CENTS

The theft of a lantern and numerous tools was discovered Monday by Mr. Brewer, nephew of Wm. Piersal. Mr. Piersal owns the bee ranch and house at Fourteenth street and Campus avenue. The house is the same one where McPherson was shot several months ago and from this house the articles were taken. The theft was reported to Officer Sawyer and proceeding across the street to the Upland Junk Company, the tools were on display in the window. The dealer had purchased them of two Mexican lads for the sum of 60 cents. Tuesday afternoon Officer Sawyer arrested Jose Sumiga and Jesus Darala, both aged 19, and they are charged with the theft. They are now domiciled in the county jail until the 28th when their hearing will be held before Judge Crane.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lee of Pasadena will be Christmas guests of Mrs. Lee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Bower, on First avenue.

"UNMOLDED MINDS TEACHERS WORK SHOP"—E.L. HARDY OF SAN DIEGO

County Teachers' Institute Comes to a Close with Masterful Address by Prominent Educator of San Diego. Child Must Be Educated During Proper Age

"Teachers," said Edward L. Hardy, president of the San Diego State Normal School, in his address before San Bernardino County teachers at the closing meeting of institute Wednesday morning, "it is your privilege to deal with the unmolded, immortal mind; we have often to hear the angels sing. Make the human mind your superior. Engage in the study of your pattern and make your work come through organized method, not for your own benefit but for the benefit of your student."

Mr. Hardy, in his tremendously interesting talk Wednesday, told of the development of the child and the necessity for the reorganization of the educational system to meet the demand of youth.

"At the present time," he declared, "we sent the child to schools organized without regard to the development of various ages and we expect, and demand the best results. Today, at the age of 16, which in this state terminates the time of compulsory education, the student leaves school unprepared to handle the problems of life. He is taught much as the tree, reared by a horticulturist whose entire attention was turned toward the analysis of soil and its perfection rather than his project, would grow. He has tools, but he has not been taught how to use them."

According to Mr. Hardy, it is the rational mind which must be cultivated to insure the best results both for the individual and the nation. The primitive, or "mob mind," as he characterized it, is the more easily developed and doubles in energy at the ratio of two to four, three to nine, and correspondingly into the hundreds. It is mob mind which has ruled, he declared, in all cases of financial calamity. The world war he characterized psychological phenomenon evolved from mob mind.

"One morning in 1898," said Mr. Hardy, "as I stood near the palace of the kaiser in Berlin, I saw 16,000 German soldiers sworn into the imperial army. Their oath was summed up to the effect that should the kaiser demand it, the soldier would shoot his mother or father 'for I, your divine leader, command it.' As early as 1898, therefore, that mob mind was preparing for the world war."

"Take inventory of your mind, classify and criticize it and then do your best to supply its needs for development of the best. Control by reason."

"On the national budget, 93 per cent was spent on war, 35 per cent going to the maintenance of the peace time army, three per cent on the fundamentals of government, and three per cent on public works. One per cent was given to education and research. We must have more, and by cultivation of the rational mind to the proper point of reasoning, we can have it."

For the Child

Leaving the adult, Mr. Hardy went directly into the problem of educating the child during the proper years.

According to the speaker, who illustrated by means of graphs, the human cell develops to 50 centimeters before birth, and during the first five years of life another 50. From that time until he is 15½ years old, he develops but 50 more, then attaining practically his majority, though five to six years additional is required to round out growth. Height is usually attained at the 15th year, according to figures obtained from 300,000 measurements. The brain is declared an adult mind at 15½ years which Mr. Hardy characterized as the continental divide. Germ cells begin to develop at the age of 13½ and are complete at 15½.

Mr. Hardy advocates the reorganization of the school system work to be classified according to age and mentality. Children will enter kindergarten at their fifth year and will remain in primary work until the

SANTA CLAUS HOST AT ATWOOD'S TODAY

Five hundred children of big and little growth waited eagerly this morning for the promised visit of Santa Claus to the J. J. Atwood Company's store, lining up right across Second avenue and keeping up a continual cheering, which turned into a ringing yell when Santa Claus appeared a block away, skating down to the happy crowd which received him with welcoming shouts.

The doors of the Atwood store swung open to receive Santa Claus and his little assistant, and the children followed down the aisles till they reached the end where behind a counter Santa Claus gave candy and apples to every one, keeping up a merry conversation with them all.

"Would you be any older if you weren't so fat?" he asked one chubby boy, who doubtless is still puzzling over the answer.

Great care was taken by the genial old Saint to see that each tiny youngster was given his candy and apple, and he insisted on every one of more or less grown-up stature taking their share, "because," says Santa with a chuckle, "there is some chance of you big ones taking what belongs to the children."

It was fully an hour from the time the doors opened to when the last child received his present, such a crowd, happy, laughing, and gay, but none of them more so than the kindly, jovial old Christmas Saint, who had a cheery word for every one, and when he wearied of repeating "Happy Christmas" changed it to "Happy Hooligan," with just as much hearty good feeling in the phrase.

Altogether the children of Upland have started the Christmas holiday with a very happy feeling, thanks to the kindly thoughts of the Atwood Company, and the jollity of Santa Claus.

NORMA TALMADGE IN A FINE COMEDY

Norma Talmadge has the chance of her life for fine comedy portrayal in the role she plays in "She Loves and Lies," Select's special production which comes to the Colonial tonight and Saturday night.

In fact it is rather a triple role, as Miss Talmadge appears as Marie Callender, known on the stage as Marie Max, an impersonator, and June Dayne, a Greenwich Village girl. The two roles outside of her own personality are assumed so that she can marry the man of her choice, obtain a large fortune and replenish the finances of the young man she loves.

How she accomplishes this is shown in a series of real comedy scenes that start with the opening of the play and continue until its end.

Miss Talmadge's charm and versatility were never displayed to better advantage than in this play.

Fourteen Motion Picture Cameras Used in Recording Great Race

Fourteen motion picture cameras centered on a single event forms a new world's record, but such a battery was used to record the great race in which Man of War defeated Sir Barton at Windsor and which will be shown in "The Race of the Age" at the Colonial tonight and Saturday matinee and night. Cameras were posted at every point of vantage and one swept the camera following the horses. Still others took slow-motion pictures which analyze in every detail the movements of the two animals.

The New York Idea

"Why change your husband, since you are practically certain to want him back?" is the theme of "The New York Idea," which is shown at the Colonial Sunday matinee and night, with Alice Brady in the stellar role. It cannot be charged that the idea is cribbed from De Mille's "Why Change Your Wife," however, for "The New York Idea" is a famous American satiric drama first played in 1906 by Minnie Maddern Fiske, and revised three or four years ago in New York by Grace George.

The New York idea is, we learn, to marry for whim and divorce for the same reason; in other words, divorce in haste and repent at leisure. As the capricious heroine, Cynthia Karslake, Miss Brady has something nearer a comedy role than her previous Realart pictures have afforded her, though she brings her well-known emotional ability into play more than once. Throughout the picture she wears sumptuous clothes, as do the other women of the cast, as well as several hundred extras who are used for ballroom, wedding, and race track scenes. Aside from the plot the film would have interested merely as a picture of New York society.

STROMEES IS HEAD OF COUNTY LEGION

A county unit of the American Legion was organized at the Elks' club at San Bernardino Tuesday night by delegates from four of the eight posts of the county, and henceforth will meet once a month to take up matters concerning ex-servicemen with the idea that all activities of the eight posts will have greater strength because of the consolidation of effort on important projects. The organization will in no way lessen the power of the individual posts.

San Bernardino, Redlands, Ontario and Upland posts were represented. Colton, Barstow, Needles and Searles Lake posts were not represented.

L. A. Stromees was selected as temporary secretary and the new body proceeded at once to organize with the following permanent officers:

Chairman, L. A. Stromees of San Bernardino.

Vice-Chairman, Dr. J. H. Titus, of Ontario.

Secretary, Leslie Harris, of Redlands.

The following were present:

Raymond Hornby, Jack Brewster, Leslie Harris, Dr. K. L. Dole, Dr. E. J. Elyng, of Redlands.

Harold C. Moore, A. H. Tolle, F. K. Nichols, R. F. Ware, B. L. Moore, Ted Ware, of Upland.

A. I. Peterson, Dr. J. H. Titus, Fred Price, J. M. Galvin, H. J. Caldwell, of Ontario.

R. F. Garner, Jr., George H. Johnson, L. A. Stromees, Jerome Allen, Earl Harkins, J. B. Kavanaugh, Dr. L. M. Coy, of San Bernardino.

The next meeting will be held in Ontario, in January.

Following the meeting a supper was served at the Chocolate Palace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sawyer and son Robert, and Mrs. Reid B. Bordwell drove to Los Angeles on Wednesday and spent the day in the city.

GAS CO. OFFICIALS ASK CONSUMERS TO COOPERATE WITH THEM

Messrs. McKee and Potter Make Suggestions to Consumers that Everyone's Christmas Dinner May Be a Success. If You Have a Wood Stove, Use It

In spite of the efforts of local gas officials, gas service went to pieces Tuesday. Throughout Sunday, Monday and up to the middle of the forenoon Tuesday the gas company was able to maintain service, but from noon on until night the condition could not be bettered.

W. L. McKee, manager for the Southern Counties Gas Company here, together with Clyde H. Potter who handles advertising for the company, called at The News office yesterday and stated they were doing all humanly possible to supply patrons with gas, but said they are up against a most unusual condition and find it necessary to ask patrons to cooperate with them in order that some patrons may not suffer from the cold while others have to subsist on cold food.

The main thing on the minds of the gas officials yesterday was that many Christmas dinners might be spoiled, and Mr. McKee states that he has a personal interest in the matter and wants patrons to know that if their Christmas dinner is spoiled, his also is spoiled. Mr. McKee is also well aware of the fact that lack of gas strains the usual equilibrium of the home and wrecks the disposition of the majority of housewives; in fact, some married men, when the gas pressure is low, have adopted the idea of approaching their homes at meal-time with their shoes in their hand and after opening the door carefully throw their hats inside. Should their hats come out again with a decided swish-h-h, they silently put on their shoes, find said hat and go back down town again to eat whatever they can find. But if the hat remains inside, they take it as a sign that it's perfectly safe to enter, providing they don't start an argument of any sort.

But the gas officials asked The News to suggest to housewives planning on serving a big dinner Saturday to do as much cooking Friday night as possible. To those who have furnaces equipped with gas and at the same time have wood stoves, the use of the wood stoves Christmas morning will help their neighbor enjoy Christmas Day.

Should Christmas Day be a warm and pleasant one, the observance of the above is unnecessary, but if it should rain or turn decidedly cold, you can help your neighbor, who lacks a wood stove for heating, enjoy Christmas the more.

Messrs. McKee and Potter stated that had the increase in population in Southern California followed along its usual lines the past few months, the condition would not be as it is, but with an increase of 30 per cent, in gas consumption, it has been impossible for the Southern Counties Gas Company to keep up with the demand for its product.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The special music for the morning service next Sunday includes the solo, "The Angels' Song," sung by Mrs. Earle Blakeslee, with cello obbligato played by Malcolm Davidson; the anthem, "Sing O Heavens," by the choir; a cello solo, "Andante," from the concerto in A, by Goltzman, played by Mr. Davidson, and an organ solo, "The March of the Magi Kings," played by Mr. Blakeslee.

This march is so unusual as to warrant some explanation of the idea of the composer, Dubois. Throughout the composition there sounds one high, gentle tone, representing the Star of Bethlehem. Beneath this tone, and at all times harmonizing with it, there unfolds, distant at first but growing in power, the march of the Magi. One can easily imagine the Oriental caravan filing in mystical awe and solemn dignity across the far-reaching plains and hills of the East, to worship by the manger. Both musically and poetically, the march is a remarkable piece of composition and one especially fitting the Christmas-tide.

Miss Fern O'Connell left yesterday for Napa where she will visit friends for some time.

BEAUTIFICATION OF EUCLID

Regarding the beautification of Euclid avenue from the south city limits to Twenty-fourth street, O. V. Rice writes The News as follows:

W. E. Westland, Editor Upland News, Upland, Cal.

Dear Sir:

Permit me through your excellent paper to make a suggestion regarding the next thing to be done in the way of improving our avenue.

The parking spaces seem to me to be the next thing to consider. Recently I noticed a recommendation—made, if I mistake not, by the Chamber of Commerce, that the parkings below Eleventh street be sown to grass. This I think a good suggestion as nothing can be more pleasing to a rational taste than a grass lawn, in the way of decoration.

But for the long stretch of our avenue a grass lawn is out of the question, for two reasons: The cost of installation and care is too much for our city resources, and we have not a water supply which we could consistently devote to the necessary irrigation of a lawn so extensive.

Shrubbery seems to be the answer. It is economical, beautiful, and with some care in selection and arrangement, can be made to satisfy—yes, delight—any reasonable taste, I think, if only beauty of decoration is sought.

But if both the good that comes to the public from beautiful lawns and parks and some real educational or scientific benefit can also be obtained there is a double recommendation in favor of the method bringing such a result.

Southern California is the natural home of shrubs—they seem to fit this section and their name is "legion," and for variety and beauty there is nothing lacking.

They have been so common as to have escaped—if not the notice, the appreciation of the masses, when growing in the wild. A visit to any well equipped nursery or to any well furnished park, private or public, reveals the fact that no small part of the shrubbery is of native varieties, and they rank well with the choicest of imported shrubs.

Now the range of these native shrubs and wild flowers is becoming more and more limited and removed from the more accessible places. What huntings and climbings must now be taken to find any fair quantity or quality of our so-called holly and where shall we go to delight our Eastern friends this year with the entrancing beauty of a poppy field?

This is my suggestion. Let us gather and install on our parking spaces on the avenue the native shrubbery and of the flowers any and all that can be made to grow. The time is not distant when our schools will be making use of the collection and tourist and resident alike gratified and instructed by it.

O. V. RICE.

Along with the suggestion of Mr. Rice comes numerous problems; for one thing Mr. Rice fails to take into consideration the fact that many shrubs refuse to grow beneath pepper trees. Not many years ago an effort was made to plant palms between the pepper trees and the result was unsatisfactory, for the pepper trees reached out for all the moisture and the poor palms withered for lack of a drink. With many shrubs the result along Euclid beneath the pepper trees would be the same as with the palms.

In order to make a success of Mr. Rice's proposition it appears to The News editor that irrigation would be necessary and the sort of irrigation necessary to make the plants and shrubs grow would be far more expensive than the maintenance of a lawn after once installed. The big expense with the lawn idea is the underground piping, but once installed the upkeep cost is not alarming when the "city beautiful" result is considered.

Another feature, of course, is the water. In dry years we haven't any water to waste, but in the majority of years our water supply is adequate and even during these dry years enough water has run down Second and Third avenues from the groves above Eleventh street to maintain the lawn along Euclid its entire length.

With the lining up of the roadway along Euclid during the recent paving, together with the smoothing up of the parkways, Euclid today presents a most beautiful appearance and as the green grass covers the parking an excellent idea of its appearance were the lawn installed can be gained. Ontario has made a success of its lawns beneath the pepper trees, and The News man believes that the two cities should enter actively into the idea of carrying the plan out the entire length of Euclid. Beautifying Euclid brings out still another problem. Growing of oranges and lemons along the avenue is, of course, necessary, and if owners of those groves desire, the frontage can be made most attractive, but what are you going to do with a property owner who selects Euclid avenue frontage as a proper place to store a carload of bean straw, fertilizer or other necessary materials used in the successful production of citrus fruit. The owner has the privilege to unload his materials where he desires and one property owner selected Euclid frontage near Fifteenth street as the proper place to store many bales of straw. This man's grove shows that he knows how to raise oranges, and we have the utmost regard for his ability along that particular line, but we don't agree with him on his idea of the "city beautiful" at all.

Men and women of the city have many ideas of value along this particular line and The News will be delighted to have discussed in its columns, town betterments. You who have an idea, write it out, send it to The News, and by an exchange of ideas big results can be obtained.

"BUYERS' STRIKE" CAN WORK HAVOC ALSO

A "buyers' strike" can work just as much havoc in trade and industry as any other kind of "strike." It is just as fatal to the whole social structure to have commerce stopped at the store counter as to have it stopped at the factory bench or the mill loom. Stoppage is stoppage; and any interruption to the normal flow of trade is bound to affect the entire stream of trade.

According to the monthly statement from the Federal Reserve Bank, the foremost problem confronting business today is how to secure a return of the public to the market and stimulate normal, sensible, unpanicky buying. In other words, the pursuit of lower prices must not be carried to that extreme which seeks bankruptcy prices or the whole economic structure will take on this same characteristic.

The situation today needs just plain everyday "normalcy" (to borrow a word which President-elect Harding resurrected during the campaign). "Normalcy" means a reaction alike from the "abnormalcy" which sent us into a saturnalia of extravagance following the armistice and from the "subnormalcy" which has since carried us to the other extreme.

Reduced prices are today the very general rule. If they are taken advantage of with "normalcy" the laws of supply and demand will shortly readjust our whole economic situation. If they are spurned, through an unconscious but none the less fatal participation in a "buyers' strike," we shall merely pyramid our postponed "demands" (which sooner or later we cannot ignore), and at last when we do enter the market, the depressed supply will be such that once more prices will shoot sky-high.

The country's economic situation today is absolutely sound. There is no reason for anything but prosperity ahead. If we can reach "normalcy" we are utterly safe. It is a "buyers' strike" which is closing factories and mills. Then the same old "vicious circle" gets in its work; and the closing of factories and mills forces many people to stay out of the market through inability to buy at any price. We finally broke this "circle" going up. Now we must break it going down.

This is easy to say. Admitted, preaching is simpler than practice. But there is a philosophy behind this whole situation—the philosophy of "normalcy." We need "normalcy" in the dollar's buying power; normalcy in labor's willingness to produce efficiently and to maximum advantage so that this normalcy in the dollar's buying power may arrive without a disruption of high wage levels; normalcy in taxation on business, to facilitate these dollar-values; normalcy in the net earnings which business seeks; and, above all else, normalcy in the buying habits of our people.

VETERAN EDITOR IS LAID TO REST

BEAUTIFUL SERVICE FOR HENRY G. TINSLEY AT HOME IN POMONA SUNDAY

The funeral service for Henry G. Tinsley, for thirty years a Pomona newspaper man, was held Sunday afternoon at the family home in that city. The Elks, of which organization Mr. Tinsley had long been a member, were in charge of the service.

The deceased was one of the organizers of the Southern California Editorial Association in 1890, and by invitation of Mrs. Tinsley a eulogy in behalf of that organization was made by John E. King, the president, who said:

Editorial Association Tribute
"We meet today to mourn the death of a colleague and a friend who passed into eternity loved by his family and his friends, respected by his colleagues of the newspaper profession, and honored by the people of the city he served so well for a third of a century."

Henry G. Tinsley came to California in 1887, having been born at Lyons, N. Y., in 1861. As a young man he was far from vigorous, and largely because of that fact he came to this sunny climate. Already he had received a training in newspaper work, and at once entered upon his work as a reporter at San Francisco, and later at Los Angeles. In a few years he acquired the Pomona Review, and for nearly thirty years he was the editor of that paper and of the Pomona Progress. He was one of the founders of the Southern California Editorial Ass'n, and has served that organization faithfully as official and as private in the ranks. He loved the comradery of his newspaper brethren, and no one had a wider acquaintance among the newspaper men and women of Southern California. He was always a welcome visitor at a newspaper office, for he was always thoughtfully complimentary of work well done and sympathetic of those to whom the burdens were heavy.

"An evening with Henry Tinsley was a delight. He had a fund of knowledge gathered from wide experience. He knew the traditions of the printing office of two score years ago, and could recite many unpublished incidents in the careers of Greeley, Watterson, Bennett and Dana, the latter with whom he worked on the old New York Sun. He could dwell in retrospect most interestingly, and his fund of stories seemed inexhaustible."

"He was a country newspaper man to the manor born. His father before him was a country editor, and it was in the office of the elder Tinsley that Henry learned the mystery and art of type, and it was there he encountered the lure of journalism which was destined to remain with him through all the years of his life. He was essentially a country newspaper man, and to him the title of 'journalist' would have been repellant."

"Henry Tinsley was generosity personified. No appeal by a worthy cause was ever made to him in vain. He gave freely and generously not only of material wealth, but of his time and his sympathy—and his sympathy was as broad and catholic as the dew of heaven. It may be said that Henry Tinsley was not a success, but who gives utterance to such a sentiment did not know the man. Success is not measured by the accumulation of dollars, by the erection of great buildings, by the achievement of fame. Success, in the measure in which we understand, is the amount of good that we can do, the number of hearts we can lighten, the happiness we can radiate. By this test—the only test that will bear analysis—Henry Tinsley was richer than all the Rothschilds. It was his greatest pleasure to help others, to bring smiles from tears, hope from despair, victory from defeat, to point out the stars that shine through sorrow's night."

"My last visit with Henry Tinsley seems well-nigh prophetic. He was talking of metaphysics, turning then to the question of religious beliefs. I did not receive the impression that creeds and covenants concerned him so much as the essential elements of faith and practice. He was essentially religious and he revered the virtues that have established and grounded our society in the everlasting standards of right and justice. I think his attitude toward religion and religious works is best expressed by the poet:

"I know not where His islands lift
Their fringed palms in air;
But this I know, we shall not drift
Away from His love and care.
"Day by day and hour by hour he made for himself while here the life in the spiritual world he now enjoys. In that place in the spiritual universe, which only the mind and spirit may apprehend, the only test is character, and our departed friend lived a life here which assures us the final judgment admitted him to a freer, fuller, happier existence."

"Two verses from a poem he recited on that last evening, illustrates yet more clearly his view on the life hereafter:

"Tonight as I sit at my window
While the West was all agleam
With that strange and wonderful splendor
That is fleeting as a dream,
I thought that the hands of angels
Had flung heaven's gateways wide,
And I caught some glimpse of the glory
From the hills on the other side."

"Is it not a comforting fancy
This sunset thought of mine,
That always the gates of heaven

Shelton, Pasadena detective, the second person to arrive at the scene of the shooting.

How fast with comfort?Easy to Ascertain the Division Point

IN a demonstration, test steering-ease and riding-comfort by the speedometer. How fast can a car go and retain slow speed roadability?

The amazing thing about a demonstration of the Marmon 84 is the fact that the driver can watch the speedometer mount to 10 or 15 miles above the average, yet the other occupants of the car will not be aware of it unless they watch the speedometer too.

To prove this, take a Marmon 84 out on the open road, not pavement necessarily, and then make some speed tests. Try the limit.

Then put any other car through the same test. Check the results on a Marmon Score Card, together with the other items of a complete demonstration.

CHRISTMAS TREE AT STICKNEY HOME

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stickney on East Tenth street was the scene of a merry party last Monday night, when the members of the Young People's Sunday School Class of the Methodist Church gathered for a happy time.

The chief feature of the evening's fun was a "Josh" Christmas tree decorated beautifully, but with foolish presents for each one, which were received with a great deal of laughter.

The evening passed in games, one contest being most amusing. Each guest was blindfolded, given a pair of scissors, and told to cut a stick of candy, which was suspended from the ceiling by a string. The antics of the blindfolded people to find the string and then cut it with only one hand caused the onlookers many a hearty laugh.

Refreshments of cake, coffee and chocolate were served at the end of the evening to twenty-five guests.

Only the immediate friends of both families were present, but Mr. and Mrs. Hirschler, who have many friends here, received the hearty good wishes for a very happy married life.

CLUB ORGANIZED BY GRAMMAR SCHOOL GIRLS

The girls of the seventh and eighth grades of the Upland Grammar School organized a Service Club last Monday afternoon at the Club Center, under the supervision of Miss Hanson, librarian of the Grammar School. The object is to bring all the girls together in one group, instead of scattering their energies in several small sets, and judging by the enthusiastic approval of all those taking part in the forming of this special affair last Monday, it promises to be a very good plan.

At the first business meeting, the constitution was read and adopted, and the following officers elected: Thyra Lee, president; Gladys Reed, vice-president; Dorothy Ford, secretary, and Caroline Brownson, treasurer. HERE AND THERE ABOUT SO. CALIF.

An artificial lake, 200 miles long and 400 feet deep—that is what the completed project of the Southern California Edison Company for damming the Colorado river would mean. The lake would be in Utah but the beneficent influence of its tremendous size and power would be felt in eight states. This enormous project, as announced Monday by the Edison Company, will necessitate a long period of study and preparations before the actual work is begun.

Two automobile bandits, armed with sawed-off shotguns, seized Policeman Robert Freeman as he was going on duty early Tuesday at Colton and, after gagging him with a glove, tied him to a tree. The desperadoes deprived Freeman of his revolver, club and flashlight. They then sped away from the scene of the attack as rapidly as they could drive. Policeman Freeman managed in a short time to attract the attention of pedestrians, who released him. He hurriedly spread the alarm, and in a short time a posse of officers and citizens was formed and pursuit of the bandits was begun. Two suspects were arrested.

Two Chinese contrabands, known to immigration authorities as "transit men," were taken from a train at Indio by United States Immigration Inspector Millard Chaffin and brought to Los Angeles Wednesday, where they are held in the county jail awaiting deportation proceedings. They gave their names as Yee Suey and Wong Kwoh Wah. The pair came through San Bernardino several months ago under bond from China, via San Francisco, in transit to Mexico. As soon as the opportunity offered, according to immigration officers, the Orientals slipped back in an attempt to return to San Francisco.

The telephone companies suffered about $500 damage, but the machine was dragged out, cranked up and sped away, apparently little worse for the encounter with the telephone poles.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE CLOSED WED.

eight, going into elementary work through the 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th years. The following four years will be classed as intermediate and the ages from 16 to 20 will be secondary pupils, their work covering high school and junior college work. Colleges will be entered entirely upon merit. This work covers the entire period of adolescence.

There should be little or no election of subjects through the secondary work, the four paramount ones to be science, covering general work; art fundamentals, literature, covering history, civics and psychology, and prevocational training. There should be no vocational training before the 16th year. In this system, the student completed his education two years ahead of the present time and is better equipped.

"Give education to children and let the government pay for it. As soon as we give as much money to child-culture as we do to citrus culture, the order of things will be on a sounder, more productive basis."

Music for the morning session was furnished by the Colton Grammar and High Schools, the former under the direction of Miss Nellie Hubrich and the latter under Mrs. Gertrude A. Butler, both providing delightful entertainment.

Members of the San Bernardino County Teachers' Association went on record as endorsing the Smith-Connor bill to be put before congress at the next session, at the closing session of the institute given in the form of a resolution.

This bill provides for the naming of a secretary of education to be a member of the President's cabinet and the allotment of a specified sum of money for educational purposes throughout the United States. Endorsement was also given to the move to place all elementary schools in high school districts.

It was also decided to accept the new constitution of the southern branch, California State Teachers' Association, which involves the reorganization of the association but which was declared by institute speakers a step in advance; and in the making of plans for the institute next year to organize a special section for junior high school or intermediate work. A committee will be appointed next year to meet all visiting teachers and see that they are properly entertained besides informing them on details of the conference. In the resolutions presented thanks were bestowed upon Mrs. Grace Stanley, county school superintendent, who is largely responsible for the institute program; Dr. R. B. Crandall, all speakers and leaders of sections, those providing music, officials of the Santa Fe shops, the Southern Sierras Power Company, Miss Eudora Allen of the city teachers' club, who provided accommodations for visitors, and all others having a part in the institute work.

Also the board of supervisors for their generous support of the schools this year, without which many of the smaller districts would have been forced to close, the committee on the Teachers' Association constitution and the Committee of Fifteen with Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, Mrs. Grace Stanley and others for their work in insuring the passage of Amendment 16.

The resolutions committee consisted of H. H. Jantzen, chairman; Leta Scott, Emma J. Kast, Leona Paxton, Frank D. Aid, H. H. Wheeler, George K. Leek, Mrs. Fredonia Zimmerman, Genevieve Sullivan, Alfred Blanchard and Mrs. Edith Troelker.

Happenings Here and There as Gathered by a News Special Representative in and
About Etiwanda

The school children had two very interesting Christmas entertainments at the close of the fall term of school. At the last meeting of the Spanish class on Thursday Christmas songs and recitations and the distribution of gifts taught while entertaining the class who had the sixth grade and Mrs. Francis present as visitors. The children of the three upper grades surprised Mrs. Francis by presenting her with a very handsome silver sandwich plate.

On Friday the entire school celebrated Christmas outside the building by making two cedar trees, growing on either side of the steps, into Christmas trees. Mr. Alfred Dugdale, dressed up as Santa Claus, assisted by Madames W. H. Frost and Spencer Johnston, distributed candy, oranges, peanuts and small remembrances from the teachers. The millinery class had made a black velvet hat as a surprise for Mrs. Francis and it was given her at this time. Some of the older pupils think this was the best Christmas the school has had within their memory.

While the stork usually gets the credit for the new members of the Etiwanda colony, we rather suspect Santa Claus came a week early this year with a daughter for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Price and a son for Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Myers. At least the two babies arrived last Saturday and are making this a very happy Christmas for a lot of people. Janellyn Rene Price, 5½ pounds of sweet babyhood, is the small granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Price, and has aunts, uncles and cousins galore who are gladdened by her arrival. James Edward Myers is the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Myers who will put a red mark around the day on the calendar whenever he comes over from San Bernardino for a visit.

On Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Myers entertained Mr. and Mrs. J. S. White of Lancaster who now live on the Canyon Springs Ranch. Mr. and Mrs. White are former Etiwanda ranchers and have several friends living here who knew them before they went away.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Marler and family are living in Dr. Shepherd's cottage on Victoria avenue, since their removal from the Fetrow house.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society is going to give a Christmas social at the church Friday evening. All the young people in the community and any out of town guests that they may have are cordially invited.

Mrs. Rena B. Francis has resigned as superintendent of the Intermediate Endeavorers and her place has been filled by the choice of Miss Katherine Jones. The young people are delighted to have Miss Jones accept the work for the New Year promises to be particularly interesting. The Intermediate Society now has over thirty members and is a real live organization that will respond to Miss Jones' leadership.

Saturday a number of the high school crowd of young people went up to the mountains in search of holly and mistletoe. Mrs. John Scott went as chaperone. Frances and Dorothy Spence, Frances, Emily and Rosalind Geidner, Catherine and Cyrus McClean, Billy Hippard and Alfred Stephens were in the party.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frost spent Wednesday in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonser moved to Corona Saturday, where Mr. Bonser opens a store this week.

The Anchorage Alaskan recently gave two and a half columns to a write-up of the work being done at the experimental farm at Matanuska. Both Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Rader receive high praise from the reporter who went there and spent the day looking over the work the government is doing to develop agriculture in that section. Mention is made of the new barn, 36 by 90 feet and two stories high, which Mr. Rader is having erected, the crops that are being handled, the cattle and the experiments with poultry, and then when the writer is all warmed up he tells about the dinner served by Mrs. Rader: home fried chicken, home grown cauliflower, potatoes, home made bread, gravy, fresh cream, home made pie, etc., etc., until only distance keeps the reader from starting for Alaska at once.

Mrs. Bailey and son Bruce, of Fairbury, Ill., are here for the winter, which they will spend with Mrs. Bailey's sisters, Mrs. James Spence of Etiwanda and Mrs. John Hansen of Sawtelle.

Mr. Harry Burbank who for several months past has been forest ranger of the territory between Cucamonga and the San Servaine trail has been transferred to the Mill Creek station.

Messrs. Thomas Donnelly, W. E. E. Layton, Spencer Johnston, Wm. Bacon and Mr. Gentry of San Bernardino left before it began raining Sunday morning on a duck hunting expedition to Imperial Valley. They will camp at Salton Sea, Mr. Johnston having taken the necessary paraphernalia along on a truck, the others going in the Layton car.

Mr. Roland Jones, who has been very sick for a week or more, is sitting up a little while each day. He narrowly escaped pneumonia.

Miss Katherine Jones spent the week-end in the mountains near Camp Baldy and witnessed a real snow storm Sunday.

Rev. C. W. Greenlee reached Etiwanda Friday night after an absence of 13 days, eight of which were spent on the train. Upon his return he found Mrs. Greenlee and his son Donald both under the care of Dr. Weber for ear trouble. Mrs. Greenlee is still quite ill.

Madam Troyer is gaining very slowly but steadily, nevertheless, at the home of her son, Rev. Wm. Troyer. She recently had a stroke of paralysis that left her helpless for a while.

Mrs. Spencer Johnston and children visited Mrs. Glen Shepherd from Sunday till Wednesday while Mr. Johnston was away duck hunting. On Tuesday evening they were entertained at dinner at the A. C. Smith home.

Mrs. Robert Henderson has been having a pleasant visit with her sister, Miss Jennings, for the past week. Miss Jennings will teach at LaVerne after the holiday vacation.

A splendid rain which fell Sunday boosted the cover crop along and washed off the scenery for the tourists. As it wasn't long in clearing off afterward it made both rancher and tourist happy.

Mr. Wm. Pearson returned Sunday from Imperial Valley. He will remain in Etiwanda until after Christmas and upon his return will take Mrs. Pearson and Phyllis Jeanne with him.

Mrs. Charles Jones of San Bernardino spent the week-end with Capt. and Mrs. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Roe and children were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Myers at dinner Thursday.

Mr. Phelps of Cucamonga is coming over daily to help in the O. P. Whitney store until a new manager is secured.

VETERAN NEWSPAPER MAN PASSES

Swing open at day's decline—That those whose work is all ended From our earthly woes and ills, May pass to the peace and gladness That crown the beautiful hills?

"Even-tempered, gentle, self-controlled and kind, always considerate of others, Henry Tinsley made warm friends, who he held in growing attachment. He was great in mind and in heart. His practical common sense, sound judgment, sterling honesty and noble purposes, combined with unusual intellectual gifts and high character to make him one of Nature's noblemen, one of the Southland's best loved sons.

"His patriotism was deep and strong, and rang true through every fiber of his being. Born and reared in a strong abolition section just as the fires of civil strife burned highest, he learned from that crucible of the nation's woes the duties of citizenship in free America, and in the recent conflict, when the civilization of the world was in the balance, his voice and pen were used unsparingly in the call of America to the highest patriotism.

"And, above all, he was typically Californian. He knew his California and could give vivid expression of his knowledge. He knew her nomenclature, her geography, her legends. He knew her hills and her valleys, the ways of her passes and the desert's danger and delight; her fens and dales; the morning songs of her birds and the harsher voices of evening; her slumbrous summer clouds, and the multi-colors of her horizons. He knew the sinuous trails of her mountain peaks and the breaking billows of her mighty silver sea. He knew the lore of the Indian and the traditions of the Spanish dons and dames. And with it all he was as much in love as is the youthful swain in his first passion.

"Henry Tinsley has seen a desert empire become a great state, with her vistas of orange groves laden with the perfume of fruit and flower; he has seen the conquest of her mountain rivers, the building of her cities; the realization of the dreams of the pioneers. And in it all he had a part, though out of the wealth he helped to create he kept little for himself.

"Our friend and companion has gone. He has solved the Great Mystery. His voice and his pen are still, and we have and believe that in the beautiful dawn of a never-ending day he has found rest, and peace, and happiness. I think he would have us say with his beloved Tennyson:

"Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea.

"But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
Too full for sound or foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless deep
Turns again home.

"Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark.

"For tho' from out our bourne of time and place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar."

1921 CALENDAR

The Poultrymen's Co-operative Milling Association, of which M. A. Schofield is president, located at 1516-18 Industrial street, Los Angeles, are now handing out to their customers and friends an artistic calendar done in seven colors, and 16x26 inches in size. While the edition lasts, these will also be mailed to every owner of six or more laying hens who will send his name and address, together with a return stamped envelope or a fray the postage.

The officers, directors and stockholders of the Poultrymen's Co-operative Milling Association, numbering nearly 200 poultry raisers in Southern California, make the announcement that they have had the most successful year in the history of their business experience extending over a period of some eight years.

This success reflects not only the financial condition of the company, but more especially the growing popularity of PCA poultry feeds.

It is the practical experience as well as the intimate knowledge of the constituent parts of every article entering into the PCA line of poultry feeds that has made it so valuable and so much sought after, both by its members—who include nearly all of the larger poultrymen of Southern California—as well as by others raising poultry both for commercial purposes and for providing the home table with really fresh eggs, fat hens and broiling chickens.

Did it ever occur to you that telling the people what you have to sell is the simple solution of success. Many men attribute their success in business to the fact that they told the buyers of merchandise what line of goods was carried and for how much those articles could be bought.

You may have the goods, Mr. Business Man, but unless you tell the people about it, why have them at all.

Christmas Greetings to You

NEVER IN THE HISTORY of the City of Upland could we approach the Holiday Season with greater joy and pride than in this year 1920, for the year has been unprecedented in progress along all lines of business and social activity.

Upland's success is attributable to the loyalty of the people of the city to Upland's institutions, foremost among which are the business and mercantile houses of the city, and we who conduct these institutions would be short-sighted, indeed, if we failed to express our appreciation of your cooperation.

Being unable to meet all personally—to clasp each one of you by the hand and to wish you the SEASON'S GREETINGS, we take this means of saying

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YOU,

One and all. And may the Holiday Season find you overwhelmingly bestowed with the good things of life. This is our Christmas Greeting to you and our heartiest wishes for a bright and Prosperous New Year go with it.

BEULAH COLLEGE NOTES

School closed last Wednesday for the Christmas holidays, and will resume work again on Jan. 3, 1921.

A very interesting address was given to the students on Monday morning by Andrew Winger, who has spent seven years as a missionary in South Africa.

Last Wednesday the Dean was called to the office where he found the freshman class assembled. He wondered what trouble was brewing, and was delightedly surprised when he was presented by the class with a beautiful gift. Later in the day another Christmas parcel was given to him with the following message: "Merry Christmas and a bright New Year from the Caesar Class. Thank you."

Fanned by an ocean breeze, fire wiped out the Ship Cafe, the dance pavilion and every concession between these and the land end of the Venice pier Tuesday night. A man and woman were reported dead and many injured in the spectacular fire which for a time threatened the whole business section of the city. The pier will be rebuilt.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Brownson and children, Willard and Caroline Brownson, will spend Christmas Day on board U. S. S. Idaho, in San Pedro Harbor, the guests of Captain and Mrs. Hussey, and brother-in-law of Mr. Brownson.

Dr. Paul Garnot, noted professor of the Beaulieu hospital in Paris, who has suggested a plan to equalize the male and female population of France, Doctor Garnot, a strong admirer of American men, suggests California husbands for French girls. He estimates that, due mainly to the war, there are 2,000,000 more women in France than men. California, he understands, has an excess male population.

CRIME DOESN'T PAY
SAYS G. ANDERSON

George Anderson, experienced highwayman, ex-convict and Folsom escapee, pronounced his life of crime a flat failure last night as he sat in Sheriff W. A. Shay's office and admitted he robbed James Winn, automobile driver, at San Bernardino on Tuesday night, and confessed to his former record, or at least a portion of it.

Anderson escaped from a Folsom prison road camp on April 4, this year, where he had served only eight years of a 30-year term for highway robbery at Woodland, in Yolo county.

"You know, sheriff, it doesn't pay," said Anderson.

"And I shouldn't have led that lad along; he was an innocent kid. I am sorry about that."

Waterl Martin, 16 years old, had already confessed the full details of the robbery of Winn and told how he met Anderson in a restaurant in San Diego after he had run his course in Tijuana, and together they had secured an automobile, ostensibly for a week's trip and started for Nevada and points farther north. At San Bernardino they found the car short of gas. Anderson proposed a hold-up to get money to buy fuel, and suggested a taxicab driver as the most likely subject. They parked their stolen car on E street, near Sixth street, walked to the Santa Fe station, selected Winn as their victim and hired him to drive them to Colton, via E street.

"I poked a gun in his back and told he kid to get his change. I told the kid to get his change. My own fault. I knew if I came back to California they would get me sooner or later. But what's the use; I would rather be in prison in California than fighting them blizzards east. It got too cold for me."

Anderson fully realized that his arrest and identification meant that he would probably spend the rest of his life in prison. He has 22 years left of his 30-year term to serve and he is now 36 years of age. All chance of a reduction in sentence was lost when he fled from the prison camp and followed that with another highway robbery here.

The sheriff pressed the prisoner for details of possible other crimes but Anderson said:

"Sheriff, I have told you all there is. It doesn't make any difference to me. I know I am going back to Folsom and that you can't add another year to what I have already got."

Anderson, when the little talk with the sheriff opened, posed as an innocent man.

"Have it your own way," said the sheriff, "but for your information the kid has come through."

Anderson threw up his hands and announced "here goes." He told the sheriff how in 1912 he and another man by the name of Frank Johnson stuck up the keeper of a roadhouse near Woodland in Yolo county and secured about $150. Five weeks later they were arrested and Johnson confessed. Anderson was sentenced to 30 years and Johnson to 20 years.

After about seven years of good behavior, Anderson said, he was placed in the road camp and eight months later escaped. He hid in the woods and worked on a section gang for a month and a half and then went East. Cold weather drove him back and he ran his pace at Tijuana and then was taken in by an ex-convict now running a restaurant in San Diego. There he met the Martin boy and they planned the trip and the necessary hold-ups to finance the expedition as they went.

According to the Martin boy he doesn't know his real name, but was adopted by John Martin in Bluegrass, Ky. The family started out for California in an automobile and at Phoenix he ran away, the boy said, and finally reached Tijuana.

Under Sheriff T. O. Carter and Deputy Sheriff Jesus Amarias brought the two prisoners in from Ludlow, where Deputy Sheriff Dan Murdock had arrested them. The men had remained at Victorville all night. Winn identified his stolen watch and purse, found in Anderson's possession.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Mann will motor from San Pedro tomorrow to attend service at St. Mark's driving afterwards to Sierra Madre where they will be guests of friends at dinner.

FREE SHIPPING SERVICES FOR MOTOR OWNERS

The shipment of motor cars for resident and non-resident car owners to all parts of the United States and to foreign countries is an important branch of service in the Automobile Club of Southern California. In 1920 the valuation of automobiles shipped by the Automobile Forwarding Department of the club was more than four million dollars. More than 13 trainloads of high class automobiles were in these shipments, estimating 30 cars to the train and three automobiles to each freight car. All this work has been given to motorists without a penny of expense, and over one hundred thousand dollars cash was saved to motor owners through such gratuitous services.

The bulk of money saved is in freight charges. By shipping in car load lots the freight charges can be split in half. Cars are shipped by the club at actual railroad cost, and all a shipper has to do is to deliver his machine to the club at 1344 So. Figueroa street, Los Angeles, and the club does the rest. Men with block, tackle, and experience take charge of the automobile. Load it in the freight car, block it securely, attend to the shipment, consign it to responsible parties at the point of destination, and these parties in turn deliver it to the consignee.

Cars can be sent in from any point to Los Angeles or shipped in by rail, and directions sent to the club's forward department to get the car and re-forward as directed. When desired, the department supply competent drivers to deliver cars to outside towns, the shippers paying only actual cost incurred. Since the war, shipping to foreign points has been quite uncertain and some steamship companies are just now endeavoring to resume lines of service which had been discontinued. For this reason, foreign shipments have been unstable, freight rates fluctuating and general shipping uncertain. Each foreign shipment is therefore handled individually and on receipt of the details the club makes arrangements for shipment, reserving the necessary space, etc.

Motorists who intend visiting So. California and who expect to have their cars forwarded by rail can save money, time, and trouble by communicating with the Automobile Club's Forwarding Department either by letter, telephone, or personal call. While no offices are maintained in the East or Middle West, valuable assistance can be afforded to motorists who wish their cars to be sent out by rail to California. As for the shipment of cars from Los Angeles to all parts of America and Canada, and to foreign countries, the department is equipped to give splendid service in every respect.

Over $160,000 was paid out in freight charges by shippers using this branch of service during 1920. This branch of service is entirely free to every one who desires to avail himself or herself of its advantages. More than one hundred thousand dollars in cash saved to motorists is an item which will be measurably increased in 1921, as motor owners are rapidly becoming acquainted with the efficiency of this branch of Automobile Club of Southern California service.
